Ralph W. Moss, PhD, offers phone consultations to his Moss Reports clients to help them individualize their cancer treatment. (Clients are those who have purchased a $297 diagnosis-specific report.) It is important to understand that Ralph Moss is not a medical doctor and the advice he gives is not intended to supplement or replace that given by your physician. Investigating the claims of people who treat cancer is his full-time job.

In pursuing this goal, he not only studies the relevant scientific literature, but frequently travels the world in search of doctors, clinics and hospitals offering new and effective approaches. He also investigates new food supplements and other purported treatments. Dr. Moss maintains an attitude of "friendly skepticism." While he is open to credible new treatment options, both conventional and alternative, he demands proof of both their safety and effectiveness. He will not be swayed by anything less than rigorous scientific evidence.

A phone consultee recently wrote:

"I'm so glad that I arranged for the phone consultation with Dr. Moss. Once again I found myself stumbling through the myriad of promised cancer 'cures' and growing weary as I treaded water in search of continued cancer treatment, then I remembered that help was just a phone call away. The information Dr. Moss provided was very valuable. He answered all of my questions and educated me on several therapy options, offering phone numbers, emails and website information, leading me in directions I had not previously considered. His expertise and years of research helped me narrow my search towards a better plan. I felt that he genuinely valued my input and was compassionate about my story. Once again, his readily-shared knowledge was a lifebuoy. I'm extremely grateful! I'm back on shore, steady on my feet and ready for battle." --Pamela B., Kansas (2006)

In a phone consultation, Dr. Moss can give you an unbiased assessment of exactly how effective accepted conventional treatments are. Similarly, there are credible alternatives out there, but there are also a lot of scams. Many people find a phone discussion with Dr. Moss to be an invaluable help in understanding the complexities of cancer therapy. Relatives are often included in these discussions. Here is what other phone consultees have recently written to us:

"We felt that speaking to Dr. Moss was a great gift. He has a wealth of information, which we were able to receive because the person we were speaking to was unbiased and had such an obvious concern for humankind." -- Ondrea and Stephen Levine

"He will help you weed through all the non-pertinent issues and save you immeasurable time and effort. I have truly benefited from Dr. Moss' exceptional education and experience. No comment would be complete without noting the professional and courteous manner afforded me by the entire staff at Cancer Decisions." -- I.T.

"It was very helpful to talk with Dr. Moss. He has a truly unique knowledge of cancer research and treatments, conventional and alternative. Especially helpful to me were his observations drawn from personal acquaintance with doctors, practitioners and clinics. This has been a great help in navigating the maze of treatment alternatives." -- David F.

"He helped me see in which direction I might go. I made a plan after talking with him that was... clearer than the scattered thoughts and random choices that had been floated in my mind previous to our talk. Thank you for your valuable gift." -- Teri K.

Could you or a loved one benefit from speaking to an experienced guide who can help you negotiate the rough waters of cancer therapy?

Dr. Moss's phone consultations normally take around half an hour. Basically he tries to get to know you as a person, to learn your needs, and what medical experiences you have had. He may then inform you about treatments of which you are unaware, or evaluate decisions you have already made. During your conversation he will help you to narrow your choices to several credible options. His personal knowledge of many of the key practitioners in this field may prove invaluable to you.

The charge for a phone consultation with Dr. Moss is US $500, which is billable to your credit card. In order that he can devote adequate time to each client, Dr. Moss generally does no more than one phone consultation per day. Since his phone consultees have already purchased a Moss Report on their particular cancer diagnosis, they are already "up to speed" and he does not have to repeat things that have been dealt with amply in the report. This makes your personalized phone consultation more focused and saves both parties from having to cover preliminary ground during valuable consultation time.

Cancer care can be very expensive and patients and their families frequently spend tens of thousands of dollars on treatments. While such money is often well spent, sometimes it is expended on invalid or even fraudulent approaches. Dr. Moss can give you insights into various treatments and their practitioners, in the US and abroad, and can thus provide you with a valuable sounding board on a wide variety of conventional and alternative treatment options. From that perspective, a $500 consultation can save you a considerable amount of time and money.

Dr. Moss has consulted for people in their 80s and for the parents of young children. He has spoken to people in every part of the world. He has done many consultations for family members or friends, without the patient taking an active part. Or you can have a friend or loved one on the phone with you, just listening or taking part in the discussion. You can use a speaker phone and have others in the room with you during the consult. Naturally, you can take notes or even record the conversation for your personal review, if you wish. Three-party calls are also possible, such as with your primary care physician or your oncologist. And the phone call itself is generally initiated and paid for at our end, even when it involves international calls anywhere in the world.

If you are not yet a Moss Reports client, you can easily become a client by ordering a report from this site or by calling our toll free number at 1-800-980-1234.
